Post-War Program

The Office of Industrial Survey
BY REAR ADM. WALLACE R. DOWD, USN
Chief

IN June, 1944, by order of the Secretary of the Navy, there was established in his executive office a specialized Board, known as the Office of Industrial Survey. The mission of this Board provides for it to conduct inspections and surveys of the Navy's industrial shore establishment and, from the results of these surveys, to report to the Secretary of the Navy as to their efficiency, and as to their utilization of manpower. During these surveys of individual establishments, data are collected and evaluated and, from these data, recommendations are made to the Secretary with respect to methods and procedures for developing higher levels of efficiency and productivity, with attendant economy of operation, and better utilization of funds and manpower.

The Staff, at the present time, is composed of twelve officers and one civilian industrial engineer, selected by reason of their management and industrial experience. They include specialists in hull, machinery, and aeronautical engineering; ordnance; supply, civil engineering; industrial relations; and management engineering. This permanently assigned group is supplemented by representatives from other sections of the Secretary's Office, including the Management Engineer's Office, the Fiscal Director's Office, and the Office Methods Division. Also, the management bureau of the activity concerned frequently furnishes members of the survey party. In addition, benefits are gained by constructive opinions and recommendations of outstanding industrial executives invited to participate in the survey of a particular type of activity, such as a Naval Shipyard, an Air Station, or a Supply Depot.

The mission of the Office of Industrial Survey is accomplished through means of routine field surveys, followed by the assembly of an analytical report for the Secretary's consideration and approval. This report contains a history of the activity, its assigned mission, and a discussion of conditions found to be existing at the time of the survey, together with recommendations for improvements. The members of the Staff, in their own specialized fields, evaluate objectively and analyze each component division or department of the activity being surveyed, relative to management, work load, facilities, organization, procedures, and expenditure of funds. The points to be included in the report to the Secretary are discussed with the Commanding Officer

House Group Forces
Cut in Resale Services

The House Armed Services Committee this week accepted the report of its Philbin Subcommittee which judged the Services guilty of virtually all charges of unfair competition with private business, and stated that it had forced them, "reluctantly in some instances" to agree to drastic curtailments of their long-standing re-sale activities established for the convenience of Service personnel.

A further threat to Service retail activities exists in the subcommittee, under Representative Hebert (D-La.), which is investigating the Quartermaster Sales stores of the Army and the Air Force and the Navy and Marine Corps uniform shops, which furnish Service personnel with regulation uniform wearing apparel.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy John T. Koehler, speaking for all the Services, advised the Committee that they have capitulated on the last of the changes demanded by the subcommittee headed by Representative Philbin (D-Mass.). The final changes which the committee insisted be imposed were:

- "(1) That special orders be abolished
- "(2) That the operation of commissary stores be discontinued within areas where adequate commercial facilities exist and make sales at a reasonable cost; and
- "(3) That full privileges be extended to all unmarried widows whose husbands died while in an active or retired status, including those Reserves retired for physical disability who have been certified to the Veterans Administration."

It was also agreed to extend privileges to Army and Air Force Reserves retired for physical disability and certified to the Veterans Administration.

Mr. Koehler pointed out in his letter to the committee that the curtailment "will result in a substantial reduction to the Armed Services in the amount of welfare and recreation funds generated by military resale activities." To this Representative Vinson, chairman of the Committee, commented that he believes Congress will make the necessary appropriations to supplement profits gained under the new regulations.

Only one dissenting vote, that of Representative Van Zandt (R-Pa.) a Naval Reserve captain, was cast against the adoption of the Philbin report by the full committee.

The Philbin report, a more detailed version of which will be drafted later, states:

Text of Report

"Pursuant to a Resolution of the full Committee, the Subcommittee has been investigating the resale activities of the armed forces since the 12th of April, and I am happy to report to you at this time that we have reached a solution on all of the controversial issues.

"During the course of our public hearings, we received testimony from approximately twenty-five businessmen and representatives of retail associations, all of whom were critical of the resale activities of the armed forces. These witnesses charged that: (1) the Armed Forces are actively competing with established private business; (2) this type of competition jeopardizes public confidence in retailers, their prices, and their integrity in

Unification Changes

With enactment of the Armed Forces Unification Act, finally agreed upon by Congress this week, President Truman is expected to name General Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Under the Act the Chairman is to be chosen from among the Regular officers of the Armed Forces and will have precedence over all other officers, but will not exercise command. He will preside over The Joint Chiefs and prepare agenda for the meetings, but will not have a vote in the deliberations. He will be appointed for a two-year term and will be eligible for reappointment for one additional term. However, in time of war there would be no limit on reappointments.

The legislation provides for a Deputy Secretary of Defense and three Assistant Secretaries. Under Secretary Stephen Early will become Deputy Secretary, and three special assistants to the Secretary are expected to be named as Assistant

Third Service Academy

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson this week asked Congress to authorize the establishment of an additional Service Academy to help meet the needs of the U. S. Air Force for officer procurement.

The proposed Academy would supplement the U. S. Military and Naval Academies. The legislation would authorize the Secretary to acquire lands and to construct and maintain such buildings and facilities as he might deem necessary to operate the Academy on a temporary basis, pending construction of a permanent Academy.

While the supporting arguments presented for the bill were based on the need of the Air Force for Academy graduates, nowhere in the letter to Congress, the draft of the proposed bill nor the official announcement released by the National Military Establishment, is the proposed academy referred to as an "Air" of "Air Force" Academy. Instead it is referred to only as a "third academy."

Recalling earlier statements by Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson that he looked forward to the time when all service academies would have a common basic curriculum after which graduates could take specialized work in their selected service, it seems evident that this is the first step in the transition to "Department of Defense" Academies rather than Military, Naval, and Air Academies.

Under the new arrangement, it is said, the two older Academies will continue to provide some of their graduates, who volunteer, to the Air Force. The new Academy, while sending to the Air Force the larger proportion of its graduates who show aptitude for flying, will also supply officers to the Army and Navy.

The letter sent by Secretary Johnson to Chairman Tydings and Vinson of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees, follows:

Text of Letter

"The purpose of this legislation is to authorize the establishment within the National Military Establishment of an additional Service Academy to provide undergraduate instruction and training comparable to that

Senate Schedule Lags;
Delays Action on Pay

The Senate Civil Service Committee this week reported a bill to increase the pay of Cabinet members and about 900,000 other Federal employees. Cabinet members would go from $15,000 to $25,000 a year. Chief clerks and professional advisers of Congressional Committees would get $12,000 instead of the $10,300 most of them now receive.

The Kilday Pay Bill will come to a final vote in the Senate during the coming week.

It was expected that this measure to increase Service compensation would be reached on the Senate calendar this week but continued delays necessitated postponement of consideration.

The Senate was occupied during the greater part of the week with the Independent Offices Appropriation Bill and the appropriation of funds for the European Recovery Program. Prolonged debate on these measures resulted in the Senate getting behind schedule. However, Senator Scott Lucas (D-Ill.), majority leader, has assured Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.), of the Armed Services Committee, that the Pay Bill definitely will be acted upon next week.

No formidable opposition to this legislation is expected. Some amendments will be offered from the floor, but they are expected to be defeated. Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Col.), has introduced an amendment providing that any physical disability incurred during World War II shall be considered for retirement purposes as having been the proximate result of performance of active duty. Adoption of this proposal would materially increase the cost of retired pay under the new schedules. Such an amendment was presented to the Senate Armed Services Committee by the Retired Emergency Officers' Association, but was not approved. Members of the committee will oppose its adoption by the Senate.

Among the Senators expected to vote against the Pay Bill are Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), William Langer (R-N. D.), and Edwin C. Johnson (D-Col.). It had been expected that Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) would join the opposition, but he has indicated that he will not object to the passage of the Military Pay Bill if he can be assured of favorable action at this session on proposed salary increases for key civilian officials. The Senate Civil Service Committee has recommended passage of such a measure, as well as another bill providing small increases for all civil service workers.

Senator Tydings said that some members of the Senate opposed consideration of the Military Pay Bill until favorable action was taken on the Unification Act under which it is expected that substantial savings in military expenditures could be effected to offset the increased cost of pay raises. With the final approval of the Unification Act this week these objections have been overcome.

They are both career men and both have records of solid achievement extending over more than a quarter century in the Service. They must have a full and fair hearing before they are condemned."

the Army in suspending two major generals indicates that the Defense Department wants no whitewash for any of its personnel who may have taken part in Washington's 'five percent' activities. The officers affected do not stand indicted. But both of them have shown up rather unfavorably in evidence gathered by a Senate committee probing the use of 'influence' in procuring Government contracts."

Cut Service Retail Sales

the discharge of the distributive function; (3) merchandise not properly classified as articles of small personal needs were being sold on a large scale contrary to the intent of Congress; (4) special order privileges (unlimited as to unit value in the case of the Navy and limited to $300 in the case of the Army and the Air Force) permit purchase of a wide range of merchandise not stocked in military stores; (5) large numbers of civilians acquire merchandise, either directly or through friends and associates in the Armed Forces, in contravention of the intent of the Congress and of military regulations; (6) military stores refuse to collect and pay the heavy Federal retail excise taxes on furs, jewelry, luggage and toilet preparations; and (7) military stores are not subject to State retail sales tax laws, real and personal property taxes, and many other types of State and local taxes.

"Now I want to comment very briefly on each of these charges so that the Committee will realize the necessity for the decisions which we have reached.

Compete with Private Business

"1. There can be no question that the Armed Forces are actively competing with established private business. In accordance with current regulations, a very wide range of merchandise is being sold through these stores and much of it duplicates merchandise being sold by retail businessmen within the same general area of the store. Due to the fact that the post exchanges and ships' service stores are not subject to State taxes, have not imposed the Federal retailers excise tax on appropriate items, have no rent to pay and pay only a portion of the upkeep of the premises and their utilities, it is inevitable that these stores can sell merchandise at a much lower price than merchants in the same vicinity. In order to correct this abuse, the Committee has urged the Services to impose the Federal retailers excise tax on all appropriate items, to defray all operating expenses, except rent and the salaries of military personnel, from the proceeds of the business and to reduce the cost limitations on merchandise sold over the counter to such an extent that luxury items would be eliminated from the stock. I am pleased to report to the Committee that the Services have accepted the decision of the Committee on each of these items. The Federal retailers excise tax went into effect in all post exchanges and ships' service stores within the continental limits of the United States on 1 Aug. It is recognized that a considerable amount of merchandise included in present stocks exceeds the new cost limitations which the Committee recommends. The Services have assured the Committee that they will govern their future purchasing policies in accordance with the Committee's decision, and that they will dispose of all unauthorized merchandise as expeditiously as possible. It is not expected that this will require any great period of time and in no event should it extend beyond 1 January, 1950.

Reflects on Retailers

"2. We must recognize the fact that we have entered a phase of economic life which is commonly referred to as a buyer's market. Instead of being faced with a scarcity of merchandise, every retailer has an abundance of merchandise and is actively competing for business. Many of the items are subject to the fair trade laws which exist in forty-five of our forty-eight States, but those fair trade laws do not apply to merchandise sold in the post exchanges or ships' service stores. As a general rule, the price differential between post exchanges and retail business houses is about 20%, however, it is much greater on items subject to the fair trade laws. As a result of this situation, many people in the Services have come to the conclusion that retailers in general are charging an exorbitant price for their merchandise. This attitude has been carried to such an extent that military personnel have openly accused reputable businessmen of dishonest operation, apparently without regard for the fact that the merchant is bound by law to charge stipulated prices for certain items of merchandise and that his fixed operating expenses are greater than those of Exchanges.

We cannot condone such practices on the part of military personnel or other authorized patrons of the post exchanges and ships' service stores. We feel that it is incumbent on the part of the military services to take such steps as may be necessary to properly indoctrinate military personnel on this matter.

Limit Cost Range

"3. The Committee has come to the conclusion that many articles are being sold by the Services for which we can find no justification. We can see no justification for the selling of diamond rings, sterling silverware, expensive sport coats and other similar items which in no sense of the word can be construed to be items of necessity, convenience or comfort so far as military personnel are concerned. Rather than eliminate these articles specifically, we have accomplished our purpose by reducing the cost price which the Services pay for their items of merchandise. We feel confident that this action on the part of the Committee will bring the post exchange and ships' service store operation more nearly in conformity with the intent of Congress. It would not be correct to say that either the Services or their critics are entirely satisfied with the Committee decisions in this respect, however, the Committee is confident that it has attained a reasonable and fair solution.

Eliminate Special Orders

"4. Special order privileges have presented a very troublesome problem. These privileges consist of being able to order items of merchandise from manufacturers and others when such items are not carried in stock in the post exchanges and ships' service stores. The Navy has no cost limitation on such items, while the Army and the Air Force have a $300 cost limitation. We have investigated this situation very thoroughly and we find no justification for its continuance. During the course of our investigation, we examined more than 5,000 special orders for 1948. While it is true that some items of day to day necessity, such as furniture and durable goods, were purchased, most of the items were not of this character and many of them were luxury items. It is within this field of activity that many flagrant abuses have occurred. The Committee gradually came to the conviction that the special order privileges should be abolished. On June 9, in executive session, the Committee made a decision to this effect and we have steadfastly supported that decision in the face of the most determined efforts on the part of the military representatives to keep the privileges. We were so convinced of the propriety of our decision that we advised the military representatives that the Committee would introduce legislation to abolish these privileges if the Services did not abide by the Committee decision. On that basis the Armed Forces have accepted our decision. Special order privileges will be abolished in all post exchanges and ships' service stores within the continental limits of the United States.

Unauthorized Purchasers

"5. In spite of the efforts of military authorities to prevent unauthorized patrons from acquiring post exchange and ships' service store merchandise, there is no question but that large numbers of unauthorized patrons have acquired such merchandise. This fact has resulted in severe criticism. The military authorities have consistently stated that they solicit any information which would prove such abuse, however, we cannot see the validity of the position of the military in attempting to place upon outsiders the responsibility for policing a military operation. In this connection, it is noted that the present methods employed by the military to prevent such abuse are entirely inadequate. In the first instance, sales personnel are not thoroughly indoctrinated as to the categories of authorized patrons. This is proved by the fact that personnel on active duty for only one day have been able to enjoy unlimited privileges in the post exchanges in Washington, even during the midst of our investigation. Not only were they able to enjoy these privileges, they were urged to take advantage of them before this Committee made any decisions which might curtail the merchandise available. The Army and the Air Force attempted to halt this abuse by requiring each purchaser, who acquired an article costing in excess of $5.00, to sign a certificate that the merchandise being acquired was for himself, a dependent, or as a bona fide gift. It is difficult to conceive of anyone who would not fall within one of these categories and since the purchaser did not have to designate the party for whom he was purchasing the item, it was almost an impossibility for an inspecting officer to determine whether or not a violation had been committed. As a matter of fact, the Committee has received little evidence which would indicate that any real attempt was being made by appropriate military authorities to control this situation. We have received much testimony that it was badly abused.

"The Services have agreed to inaugurate a more detailed type of purchase slip for all items in excess of $5.00. It is hoped that the information required on this new purchase certificate will be sufficient to permit the Inspectors General to make periodic investigations in an attempt to control, if not completely erase this abuse. This Committee recommends that such investigations be conducted, on a spot check basis, not less than twice annually. It is a regrettable fact that this type of abuse could not occur unless an authorized purchaser, chiefly military personnel, agrees to violate the very regulations which permit him to enjoy these privileges. We doubt that Service personnel have been properly indoctrinated as to their responsibility and liability in this matter, and now urge that it be done as expeditiously as possible.

Impose Taxes

"6. Since it has previously been stated that the Federal retailers excise tax has already become effective in military stores, we need not give that item additional consideration.

"7. The allegation that military stores are not subject to State retail sales tax laws, real and personal property taxes, and many other types of State and local taxes is true. Each of these items is reflected in the prices of merchandise sold by retail businessmen, but they are not reflected in the selling price of post exchange and ships' service store merchandise. The Committee has attempted to narrow this price differential by including additional and appropriate items of overhead expense, such as utilities and upkeep and the Federal retailers excise tax. With the other curtailments which have been achieved, it is our sincere hope that we have removed the principal controversy from this issue.

Unify Names

"In addition to the criticisms of businessmen, the Committee has considered additional matters. The names and origin of post exchanges and ships' service stores are historical. However, the variation in names has led to a great deal of confusion. The Committee recommended to the Services, on 8 June, that a suitable single name be found for the designation of these activities. The Services have found an appropriate name and, effective 1 January 1950, the Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps post exchanges and the Navy ships' service stores shall be redesignated as Army exchanges, Navy exchanges, Air Force exchanges and Marine Corps exchanges.

"Another problem relating to the auditing procedures of the respective Services was presented to the Committee. We received testimony from representatives of the Comptroller General who urged that the Comptroller General be authorized to conduct an annual audit of exchange accounts. At the present time the respective Services handle this matter in different manners. The Navy requires an annual audit of its transactions by a recognized firm of outside accountants. It appears that this practice has proved most satisfactory in the Navy. The Committee agreed to forego the audit by the Comptroller General if the other Services adopt the same accounting procedures presently used by the Navy. This has been agreed to by each of the other Services.

"There are wide variations in current regulations between the respective governing post exchange, ships' service stores and commissary activities. Since the outset of our investigation, the Committee and each of the Services have been in full agreement that it would be desirable to have a single uniform regulation for all of the Services. This has been accomplished and uniform exchange regulations as well as uniform commissary regulations will become effective on 1 October, 1949. By 1 Jan. 1950, all Commissaries in Metropolitan areas will be closed.

"The final item for consideration concerns the inequity which exists today between certain categories within the respective Services. Under existing law all retired Regulars of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force are entitled to unlimited privileges of the exchanges and the commissaries. This includes disabled Navy Reserve officers who are carried on the retired list of the Navy and receive the same privileges, rights and benefits as the retired Regulars. Statutory provision is also made for the widows of Navy and Marine Corps personnel. The inequity arises from the fact that those non-Regular officers of the Army and Air Force who have become permanently disabled in Service and are drawing retirement pay from the Veterans' Administration are denied these privileges. Army and Air Force widows are likewise denied the privileges. This inequity arose in 1939 when the present retirement laws governing Army and Air Force non-Regular officers were enacted. Less than three weeks after the enactment of the law, the President issued his Executive Order No. 8099 wherein he directed the Veterans' Administration to administer the benefits of the Act, rather than placing these officers on the retired list of the Army. As a result of this action, this same problem has been presented to every session of the Congress since 1940 and we have come to the conclusion that we will not be a party to the perpetuation of this inequity.

Extend Privileges

"We strongly feel that exchange and commissary privileges were originally established for the convenience and benefit of military personnel on extended active duty and it was our original decision to limit the privileges to that category. The Services have strenuously opposed us in that opinion. They point out that retired personnel are still an organic part of the armed forces; that they are still subject to being called to active duty, and that they are subject to punishment under the disciplinary codes of the respective Services. In addition to this fact, they urge that we do not deprive career and disabled Service personnel of privileges which they have enjoyed for many years, the denial of which would be destructive to their morale. The Committee has receded from its original opinion on this matter, but only on the condition that the existing inequity be removed by administratively extending the same privileges to Army and Air Force personnel and their widows that are enjoyed by Navy and Marine Corps personnel. The Services have agreed to abide by that decision. In receding from our position we are fully aware of the fact that there is a substantial number of persons who will be added to the list of authorized patrons. However, in spite of the fact that a substantial number will be authorized to avail themselves of the privileges, the geographical distribution of these new patrons precludes any possibility that any substantial number of new patrons will find it possible to avail themselves of the privileges. We do not feel that we have added a harmful number of new patrons, and we are certain that we have eliminated an inequity which we were unwilling to perpetuate.

"The military representatives have come into agreement with the Committee most reluctantly in some instances, however, the items which I present to you here today are presented as a solution which has been accepted by the military. While it is true that representatives of retail business may not be in full accord with all of the actions of this Committee, I am confident that the imposition of the Federal retailers excise tax, the revision of the authorized list of merchandise and the abolishment of special order privileges will provide a very substantial accomplishment in the interest of retail business."

All Sea Transportation to Navy

Responsibility for the operation of all ocean transportation for the Armed Forces was assigned to the Navy on 2 August in a directive issued by Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson.

The directive sets up a Military Sea Transportation Service to be operated and administered by the Navy. It transfers to this service all government-owned vessels used for sea transportation by the Army and Navy, as well as personnel, facilities, equipment and funds used for sea transportation of personnel and supplies.

Consolidation of sea transportation facilities under the new agency will be initiated not later than 1 Oct. and will be completed as soon thereafter as practicable. The Army Transport Service, operating under the Transportation Corps of the Army, will be transferred to the Military Sea Transportation Service of the Navy.

Now under Army ownership and to be transferred to the new agency are 129 ocean-going vessels, including 66 passenger transports, 58 cargo transports, and 5 tankers. In addition the Army has 191 vessels under charter, which will be operated by the new service as long as required. The vessels under bare-boat charter include 38 cargo ships, 4 passenger ships and one tanker. The remaining vessels, consisting of 147 cargo ships and one reefer, are under time-charter to the Army. Time-chartered vessels are privately owned and operated. The total number of ocean-going vessels owned or chartered by the Army is 320.

The vessels to be assigned to the new agency from the Navy include 9 passenger transports, 12 cargo vessels and 73 tankers, a total of 94. Certain other transports, cargo ships and tankers operated by the Navy are classified either as combat vessels or ships in support of the fleet and will not be transferred to the new service.

Assignment of sea transportation to the Navy was recommended last December by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and approved by the late Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. Mr. Forrestal directed that a detailed study be made as to the procedure to be followed. The directive issued this week stemmed from this study.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff at the same time recommended that responsibility for land transportation be assigned to the Army. A directive placing responsibility for the operation of military land transportation for the Armed Forces, including rail, highway, pipe-line and inland waterway, under the Army was issued on 15 March 1949. Details covering this assignment are being worked out by the Joint Military Transportation Committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and will soon be submitted to the Secretary of Defense for approval.

Rear Adm. William M. Callaghan, ordered to the Office of Naval Operations this week, has been named to head the new agency. He had previously served as Commander of the Atlantic Fleet Training Command.

As the first commanding officer of the battleship Missouri, Admiral Callaghan was a member of Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's famous Task Force 58 which made the first mass air strike against Japan. While in command of the Mighty Mo he also furnished close air support to carriers operating against the enemy stronghold of Iwo Jima, and in carrier strikes against Tokyo as well as the initial bombardment of Okinawa. Before his assignment as Commander of the Atlantic Training Command, he served as Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for Transportation, and as Chief of the Naval Transportation Service.

Rear Adm. Fred D. Kirtland, Commander of the Amphibious Training Command, Atlantic Fleet, has been named to succeed Admiral Callaghan.

At the same time the Navy announced the assignment of Read Adm. Robert E. Blick as Commander of Carrier Division 14. Admiral Blick is currently serving as a member of the Navy General Board.

Unification Changes

Secretaries. They are Marx Leva, Wilfred J. McNeil, and Paul H. Griffith.

The probable advancement of General Bradley to the post of Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has aroused considerable speculation as to his successor as Army Chief of Staff. Four officers have been mentioned as being the most likely ones from whom the new Army Chief will be chosen. They are General J. Lawton Collins, Vice Chief of Staff; General Thomas T. Handy, commanding the Fourth Army; General Mark W. Clark, commanding the Sixth Army, and Lt. Gen. Walter B. Smith, commanding the First Army. Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, Deputy Chief of Staff, is also mentioned, but he is regarded as more likely to be named Vice Chief of Staff in case General Collins is promoted or given another assignment.

Two other important assignments will be available soon for which these same officers will doubtless be considered. An American officer will probably be named to head the military council to be formed by the twelve Atlantic Pact countries, and the office of Chief of the Army Field Forces will become vacant with the retirement of General Jacob L. Devers on 30 Sept.

In the Department of the Army no one has yet been appointed to succeed Secretary Gordon Gray as Under Secretary. This post is expected to go to Assistant Secretary Tracy S. Voorhees, and Mr. Archibald S. Alexander of New Jersey is believed to be his successor.

It is expected that Defense Secretary Louis Johnson will take immediate steps to reorganize his office under the terms of the new Unification law. In anticipation of Presidential approval he has under study a number of orders to provide for a consolidation of functions to promote efficiency and economy. Mr. Johnson and others who supported the Hoover recommendations for the reorganization of the Defense Department have predicted that substantial savings will result. This probably can be accomplished only through a marked reduction in civilian personnel.

With the ratification of the Atlantic Pact and the necessity for an Inter-Allied military organization under the pact, as well as the proposed program for aiding in the rearmament of friendly foreign countries, the Defense Department is confronted with an unprecedented number of problems involving international relations. Secretary Johnson has announced the appointment of Maj. Gen. James H. Burns, USA-Ret., as a consultant on politico-military affairs. General Burns served during the war as an executive assistant to the late Harry Hopkins in the Lend-Lease Administration. He is an expert in the production and procurement of munitions and has a wide experience in international relations.

Secretary Johnson has also created the Office of Foreign Military Affairs with Mr. N. E. Halaby as director. Mr. Halaby, who is a former Naval officer and Air Force test pilot, will handle politico-military matters involving international relations, other than occupation problems and foreign military aid. Assistant Secretary of the Army Tracy S. Voorhees will continue to handle matters pertaining to military occupation of conquered countries, and Major General Lyman L. Lemnitzer subjects relating to foreign rearmament.

Lump-Sum Benefits to End

With the approval of the Secretary of Defense, the Department of the Air Force is requesting legislation "to terminate lump-sum benefits provided by law to certain reserve officers of the Navy and Air Force."

According to the covering letter, "the purpose of this proposed legislation is to terminate the accrual of credits for payment of annual bonuses to the personnel of the Navy and Air Force" by amending existing law which provides a "$500 annual bonus for a period of not more than seven years to graduate Naval Cadets," and by amending other existing law "whereby Air Force Reserve Officers on active duty for a year or more, whether or not on flight status, receive similar bonuses if called to duty as Air Force Reserve officers."

"Pay-as-You-Ride" Ordered for Govt. Autos in Far East

In line with new economy measures, Headquarters Mariana Bonins Command has announced a new policy for the unofficial use of government vehicles.

Lt. Col. William H. Van Dine, assistant chief of staff, G-4, stated that a recent radio message from Commander in Chief Far East directs that the government be reimbursed for the use of its vehicles on unofficial business. In general this will mean that users of government buses, sedans, and jeeps traveling between living quarters and places of work will be required to pay for such transportation.

Persons authorized light vehicles for recreational purposes are expected to pay for the use of them on a mileage basis. Troops using their own unit's trucks for recreational activities will not be required to pay for that type of transportation.

Colonel Van Dine said that conferences between Army, Navy and Air Force officials were scheduled to agree on a uniform system of operation and collection of fares for government-owned bus transportation.

Heads Civilian Components

Mr. William T. Faricy, president of the Association of American Railroads, has been appointed by Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson as Chairman of the Civilian Components Policy Board of the National Military Establishment. This Board will study and consolidate programs and evaluate all matters relating to the Organized Reserves of the Army, Navy, including Marines, and Air Force, and the National Guard, both ground and air.

Other Members of the Board will include a military executive officer, two officers from each of the Reserve components of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force, two from the Army National Guard, two from the Air National Guard, two Regular Army officers, one Regular Navy officer, one Regular Marine officer, and two Regular Air Force officers.

The chairman of the new Board is a veteran of World War I, having served in France as a captain of infantry. He has served as solicitor and general counsel of Chicago and Northwestern Railway and of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway.

Army-Navy Nurse Appointments

At the direction of the Secretary of Defense, Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray has sent to Congress a bill "to amend the Army-Navy Nurses Act of 1947 to provide for additional appointments" in the Army and Navy Nurse Corps and in the Women's Medical Service Corps of the Regular Army "by increasing the maximum age for appointment."

Other objectives, according to a covering letter, are: to change the authorized number of majors in the WMSC from a numerical to a percentage basis; provide for promotion in the ANC and WMSC parallel with those of promotion-list officers; equalize the period of service as Chief of the ANC, or Chief or Assistant Chief of the WMSC; give certain credit for civilian service with the Medical Department of the War Department in the dietetic or physical therapist categories in computing active Federal military service; provide for retirement, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy, of officers of the Navy Nurse Corps upon attaining specified ages and completion of years of service; permit their retirement in the highest rank satisfactorily held; extend certain equivalent benefits to Navy nurses retired prior to the passage of the Army-Navy Nurses Act of 1947; and provide sundry perfecting amendments.

Existing law (Public Law 36, 80th Congress) sets a maximum age of 35 years "on the date of nomination for integration into the Army of nurses of World War II service." According to the Secretary of the Army, this would make ineligible for commissions "many efficient nurses" and "the proposed legislation would correct this by providing that for any person the maximum age limit shall be increased by the number of years, months, and days of active Federal service performed by such person as a commissioned officer of the Army of the United States pursuant to the Act of 22 June 1944 (58 Stat. 324), or as a member, including the status of Reserve nurse, of the Army Nurse Corps created by Chapter V of the Act of 9 July 1918 (40 Stat. 879)."

The bill provides that 35 shall be the maximum age for appointment in the WMSC, instead of the present age limit of 28; also a percentage provision by which the number of majors in this corps would be increased in proportion to the increased strength of the WMSC.

The legislation provides for promotion and retirement of members of the three specified corps in line with promotion-list officers.

Chaplains School Conference

An Administrative Conference on Reserve Affairs and Training was held at the Chaplain School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., 27-28 July. Representing the Office Chief of Chaplains were Chaplain (Col.) Martin C. Poch, Executive Officer, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Joel M. Waering, Personnel Division, and Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Earl D. Compton, Planning and Training Division.

Big Things to Come in Telephone Service

FASTER, BETTER SERVICE MANY LONG DISTANCE OPERATORS NOW DIAL CALLS STRAIGHT THROUGH TO DISTANT TELEPHONES. NEW AUTOMATIC EQUIPMENT MADE BY WESTERN ELECTRIC SPEEDS THESE CALLS TO SOME 300 CITIES. IN ADDITION, TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS IN CERTAIN METROPOLITAN AREAS ALREADY DIAL CALLS TO NEARBY PLACES IN THE SAME WAY THEY DIAL LOCAL CALLS.

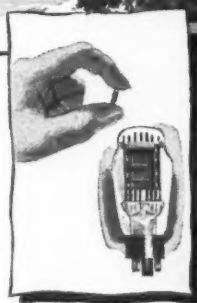

NOW SHE DIALS LONG DISTANCE CALLS

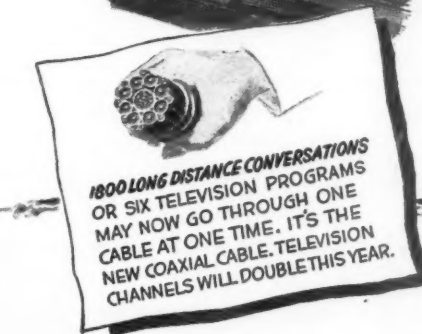

TRAVELING TELEPHONES THOUSANDS OF CALLS ARE NOW MADE DAILY FROM AUTOMOBILES, TRUCKS, SHIPS AND TRAINS. IT'S A BIG FIELD FOR THE FUTURE.

AMAZING NEW ELECTRONIC AMPLIFIER—THE TRANSISTOR DEVELOPED BY BELL LABORATORIES. NOT MUCH BIGGER THAN TIP OF SHOELACE. IT'S SIMPLE AND MUCH SMALLER THAN VACUUM TUBES THAT ARE USED BY THE THOUSANDS TO AMPLIFY YOUR TELEPHONE VOICE.

TELEVISION AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE NETWORKS NEW RADIO RELAYS ARE DESIGNED TO BEAM TELEPHONE CALLS OR TELEVISION PROGRAMS FROM TOWER TO TOWER ACROSS THE COUNTRYSIDE. DISTANCE BETWEEN RELAY TOWERS AVERAGES 25 MILES.

1800 LONG DISTANCE CONVERSATIONS OR SIX TELEVISION PROGRAMS MAY NOW GO THROUGH ONE CABLE AT ONE TIME. IT'S THE NEW COAXIAL CABLE. TELEVISION CHANNELS WILL DOUBLE THIS YEAR.

TELEPHONE POLICY THE BEST POSSIBLE SERVICE AT THE LOWEST COST CONSISTENT WITH FINANCIAL SAFETY. AND FAIR TREATMENT OF EMPLOYEES.

Navy Personnel Bill

Legislation to adjust the lineal positions of certain officers of the Navy Staff Corps, and to extend the date for acceptance of LDO appointments, was passed this week by Congress and has been sent to the White House for Presidential approval.

When signed by the President, the bill will authorize the Secretary of the Navy to convene a board to recommend the reassignment of running mates to officers of the Navy Staff Corps; to reassign running mates in accordance with the approved recommendations of the board; and to adjust the lineal positions of such officers in their present or higher grades.

If the running mate so assigned has attained a higher grade than that held by the Staff Corps officer, or has been recommended for temporary promotion to a higher grade in the approved report of a selection board, the Staff Corps officer concerned shall be eligible, under the new legislation, for consideration for selection for temporary promotion to the next higher grade.

The legislation also provides that all Naval personnel selected for LDO appointments in the Regular Navy prior to 7 Aug. 1949, and currently serving in higher temporary grades, shall retain their present rank until 1 Jan. 1957, or until such time as the number of permanent line officers on the active list of the Regular Navy is equal to 95 per cent of the number authorized by law. It will permit the President to make original appointments in LDO grades not above commander for the same period of time.

Commands Bethesda Center

Capt. Frederick C. Greaves, MC, U. S. Navy assumed command of the U. S. Naval Hospital, National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md. on Monday, 1 Aug., relieving Capt. Bartholomew W. Hogan, who has been in command since Admiral Leslie O. Stone was detached early in June. Captain Hogan has resumed the duties of his regular assignment as executive officer of the hospital.

Captain Greaves served in the first World War as an army Private and entered the naval service in 1923. He holds both the Bronze Star award for performance of outstanding services during landings on Sicily and Italy and the Gold Star for professional skill in evacuation of wounded during invasion of Southern France. Before reporting at the Medical Center for his new assignment Captain Greaves had been Fleet Medical Officer, Pacific Fleet with headquarters at Pearl Harbor.

Navy to Build Largest Blimp

Work on a new Navy blimp, designed to combat snorkel submarines, has been started at the Goodyear Aircraft Corporation factory, Akron, Ohio.

When completed, the blimp will be the largest nonrigid airship ever built. It will have an overall length of 324 feet, and will carry the latest equipment for the detection and tracking of submarines.

Designated N-type, the ship will be fitted with special equipment to permit refueling in flight, and new air-sea rescue equipment which will include an electrically-operated winch to haul survivors aboard.

Another new design feature of the blimp permits the location of its two seven-cylinder engines within the control car. The two controllable-pitch propellers will be mounted on outriggers from each side of the car.

The gas bag, with a capacity of 875,000 cubic feet, will be inflated with non-inflammable helium gas. Its capacity compares with 725,000 cubic feet for the M-type airship, which holds the world's sustained flight record of 170 hours, and 456,000 cubic feet for the K-type ships used in antisubmarine warfare during World War II.

An 87-foot control car on the airship will have two decks, with operating stations on the lower level and crews' quarters, bunks, and galley on the upper deck. Flight controls will be manual or automatic, and the tricycle landing gear will be retractable.

The new anti-submarine airship will have a speed of approximately 75 knots, a maximum gross weight of about 55,000 pounds, and will carry a useful load of more than four and a half tons.

Work on Ordnance Problems

The solution of 21 technical and business problems of the Bureau of Ordnance and the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at White Oak, Md., has been undertaken by the Bureau of Ordnance Contact Committee of the National Security Industrial Association (formerly the Navy Industrial Association).

All problems have been studied by a special committee consisting of Richard A. O'Connor, president of the Magnavox Company; F. W. Godsey, Westinghouse Electric Corp.; H. C. Guterman, president of the Arma Corp.; Mark L. Sperry, jr., vice president Scovill Manufacturing Co.; and H. H. Ewing, development department, E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., Inc. This committee has suggested personnel to serve on the various task committees and has requested reports from them by 31 Aug.

Admiral Bunkley Elected

Rear Adm. Joel William Bunkley, USN-Ret., has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees of the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation, it is announced by Walter S. Lemmon, President and Founder of the Foundation.

Admiral Bunkley, prior to his retirement, was one of the Navy's foremost experts on Latin American affairs. He left this week aboard the American Export Lines' "SS Excalibur" for an extended trip abroad. He will survey the reactions of the listeners to WRUL programs in a number of the European countries which he will visit. These broadcasts are beamed daily to Europe, the Middle East and South America over Station WRUL, located in Boston, Mass.

USMC Colonels Retired

Three Marine Corps colonels, one with more than thirty-two years service, and two with over twenty years service, retired from active duty this week. For having been specially commended for the performance of duty in actual combat, two were advanced to brigadier general on the retired list.

Col. Orin K. Pressley, who has been serving as Director, Sixth Marine Corps Reserve District, with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia, became a brigadier general for having won a Gold Star in lieu of a second Bronze Star Medal as Commanding Officer, Second Battalion, Second Marines, Second Marine Division on Tulagi, Solomon Islands in Aug., 1942.

Also advanced to brigadier general was Col. Elmer H. Salzman, a naval aviator presently on duty in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations. He was awarded the Navy Cross during the Nicaraguan campaign in 1928. Colonel Salzman was born in Manitowoc, Wisc., 12 June 1902, and presently resides with his family at Falls Church, Va.

Col. Ralph D. Leach, a native of Florence, Neb., was placed on the retired list following more than thirty-two years active service. He had been Camp Supply Officer, Marine Barracks, Camp Lejeune, N. C.

MCR Officer Wins Contest

"The Sea Chase," a novel by Maj. Andrew C. Geer, USMCR, has been selected as the winning entry in the third annual Navy Literary Contest. One of the 65 manuscripts submitted by Navy and Marine Corps personnel on active duty, "The Sea Chase" concerns the return voyage of a German merchant ship after eluding internment in Australia during World War II.

The winner's award is a fellowship to the annual Bread Loaf Writers' Conference, to be held during the period 17-31 Aug. at Middlebury, Vt. Major Geer will be accompanied at the conference by Lt. (jg) Arnold S. Lott, USN, winner of the 1948 contest.

"The Sea Chase" is Major Geer's first novel. It has been published by Harper and Brothers.

Air Force I & E Program

The Air Force Information and Education Program, directed toward the improvement of the educational level and the maintenance of high morale, as well as mental and civic development of all personnel, was one year old this week.

Reporting numerous achievements in the twelve months since operational and supervisory control of the program was transferred to it from the Army, the Air Force pointed with pride to an increase from 10 to 17.3 percent in world-wide participation in the education program. The increase was based on overall strength of the Air Force.

Other accomplishments included:

An increase in USAFI Testing Centers in the U. S. from 11 to 32, while Registration Centers increased from 7 to 23.

Publication of a quarterly I&E News Letter for distribution in the field.

Establishment of an Air Force testing and registration center within the I&E Branch to serve Air Force military personnel stationed in the Pentagon.

Completion of a study of the Dependents School situation in the Air Forces as of 1 July 1949.

Procurement and distribution weekly of "The World News of the Week" map to all AF bases in the U. S.

The program is operated and supervised under the direction of the I&E branch of the Personnel Services Division, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for personnel. Lt. Col. Harry C. Eckloff is Chief of the branch.

Officers' Reception Section

An Air Force Officers' Reception Section has been established at Headquarters USAF, in Room 1E458, The Pentagon, for the convenience of officers arriving for duty in Washington, D. C.

Personnel of the new section will assist officers in officially registering "in" and "out," and will prepare initial pay and expense accounts, as well as endeavoring to be helpful in the solution of other problems which usually confront officers upon change of station.

Air Force Letter No. 185-3, advises that all personnel ordered to HQUSAF on permanent change of station are encouraged to write to the Air Adjutant General, Headquarters USAF, Attention: Officers' Reception Section, Washington 25, D. C., for any advance information or assistance that may be desired prior to departure from their previous base.

All Jets in Germany

Jet planes will replace all standard-type American fighters now being used in Germany, according to Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg.

The disclosure was made by General Vandenberg this week at Grafenwohr, Germany, where the Air Force Chief and the other two members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff reviewed American combat troops.

Thirty-five Shooting Star jets, together with attack planes and bombers, joined 17,000 troops of the 1st Infantry Division, a Navy contingent, and constabulary units in honoring the military leaders.

The three chiefs, General Vandenberg, General Omar N. Bradley, and Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, arrived in Germany on 30 July for a 10-day study of European defenses and potentialities under the Atlantic Pact.

Gen. Dunn Retires

Brig. Gen. Ray A. Dunn, former Director of Materiel for the Military Air Transport Service Headquarters, (MATS), last week retired from military service after more than 32 years of active duty.

A Command Pilot, General Dunn has been an aviator ever since 1911. He entered military service in April 1917 with the aviation section of the Signal Corps and was commissioned the following August. During World War II General Dunn served for four years in the Asiatic-Pacific and European theaters.

General Dunn is the author of the book, "Aviation and Life Insurance." His son, Capt. Ray A. Dunn, Jr., '27, is a USAF pilot. General Dunn plans to stay in Washington indefinitely.

Air Force Manpower Control

An Air Force Manpower Group, organized to study and analyze Air Force activities, has been established by USAF Headquarters.

Studies by the group will be made with respect to the mission, workload, personnel requirements, effectiveness in the utilization of personnel resources, and over-all economy of operation. The group will submit recommendations to correct any deficiencies revealed by its work.

In addition, commanding generals of each major air command have been directed to establish local manpower groups of a similar nature. These groups will report to USAF Headquarters.

Air Safety

Maj. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, Commander of the Military Air Transport Service, has advised his command that it must continue to stress air safety objectives and minimize avoidable accidents by continuous training and sustained supervision.

In a recent letter to all MATS commanders, General Kuter stated that rated and non-rated personnel of all ranks must develop a deep understanding of their individual and collective responsibility for the prevention of aircraft accidents.

Makes Inspection Tour

Lt. Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw, Deputy Commanding General of the Air Materiel Command, recently visited the Hill Air Force Base, at Hill Field, Utah, on a tour of inspection.

After surveying the Supply and Maintenance divisions at the base and inspecting other facilities, General Chidlaw addressed a group of civic and business men at the Ben Lomond Hotel in Ogden. The topic of his speech was research and development.

TAC Deputy For Plans

Col. Albert P. Clark has been appointed acting Deputy for Plans of the Tactical Air Command Headquarters at Langley Air Force Base, Va. It was announced by Maj. Gen. Robert M. Lee, Commanding General of the Tactical Air Command. Colonel Clark was formerly Director of the Doctrine Section of the Tactical Air Command and succeeds Col. William W. Momyer, who has been assigned as a student at the Air War College, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Sen. Tydings' Hog Auction

Maydell McDarment, wife of Capt. Corley McDarment, USAF-Ret., will be the clerk at the big purebred Hampshire hog auction held by Senator Millard E. Tydings at his farm "Oakington" near Havre de Grace, Md., 8 Aug.

Mrs. McDarment, who performed this job once before for the Senator, has done some buying on her own from his herd as she owns a hog farm herself. At last year's auction she bought a gilt sired by the great boar, Glory Bound, and sent it to Texas. It was insured en route by Lloyds of London against such ills as "sunstroke and thumps."

MATS Conference

A Commanders conference will be held at Andrews Air Force Base, Washington, D. C. during the period 15-17 Aug., to discuss a tentative program for the Military Air Transport Service's second year of operation, according to MATS Headquarters.

provided by the U. S. Military Academy and the U. S. Naval Academy for service in the Armed Forces of selected persons. For the purpose of providing permanent facilities for the Academy, the Secretary of Defense would be authorized to utilize, with the consent of the heads of the departments concerned, available lands owned by the United States, and to acquire lands and rights pertaining thereto or other interests therein, including temporary use, by donation, purchase, or otherwise. The Secretary would also be authorized to construct and maintain such buildings, appurtenances, facilities, etc., as he might deem necessary. For the purpose of providing temporary facilities and to enable early operation of the Academy, the Secretary of Defense would be authorized to utilize, adapt, and maintain existing facilities, to contract with civilian institutions, and to appoint classified civilians for the administration of the Academy as circumstances might require.

"The bill further provides that all appropriate provisions of law not inconsistent with the purposes of this Act which pertain to the U. S. Military Academy shall also pertain to the Academy established under this act. The organization of the Academy shall be prescribed by the Secretary of Defense and he is empowered to limit, by means of competitive examinations, the number of cadets to be appointed annually to the Academy. In order to permit an orderly increase in the number of such cadets. Under the terms of the bill the Secretary of Defense would be authorized to effect a transfer to the Academy during the initial year of its operation, and with the consent of the individuals concerned, of certain cadets from the two existing Service Academies.

Inadequate For NME Needs

"One of the great problems confronting the National Military Establishment at the present time is the provision of adequate facilities and services to provide for a system of undergraduate education to prepare officers for lifetime careers in the Armed Forces. While the existing academies are able to provide for the career officers requirements for the Army and the Navy, their facilities are inadequate to make available sufficient career personnel for the entire National Military Establishment, including the Air Force.

"The principal sources of career personnel for the Air Force in the past have been the Aviation Cadet Program, the Air Reserve Officers Training Corps, and the Officers Candidate Schools, which are presently unable to provide the number of career officers with the educational qualifications required by the Air Force. The Air ROTC is the main source of college graduates, but the dependability of this source, as well as of the others mentioned, varies substantially with changes in economic and world conditions.

"The Air Force, like the Army and the Navy, has a definite requirement for a system of officer procurement that will provide an adequate and continuous flow of college educated, uniformly trained young men possessing the desired character and personal attributes, who have a firm and considered desire to become and remain officers, a system that will give stability to the officers corps and unity to the objectives of the Department.

"Currently an attempt is being made to alleviate the problem of officer procurement within the Air Force by the integration each year of a certain portion of each class graduated from the U. S. Military Academy and the U. S. Naval Academy. To continue this procedure, however, the existing Service Academies would have to be expanded to enable them to meet the needs of their respective services as well as of the Air Force. Recent studies have established that such expansion is not feasible, and that the only practical solution to the problem is the establishment of an additional Service Academy.

Confer Degrees

"It is contemplated that the Academy will be an undergraduate institution that will confer an appropriate degree upon those successfully completing the prescribed course of instruction. The curriculum will be designed to offer a broad general education and to provide a course of instruction that will: (1) equip graduates with the training, experience, and motivation that will prepare them to graduate with the knowledge, character, and qualities of leadership required of a junior officer, and (2) provide a basis for continued development of the graduates throughout a lifetime of service to their country, and a preparedness for military responsibilities of the highest order.

"An accurate estimate of construction costs can be made only after full investigation of the actual site selected for development and a determination of the type of architecture and materials to be used in the construction. In the absence of this specific information, an estimate based upon national average costs at a hypothetical site and presenting average construction conditions has been prepared. This estimate amounts to approximately $171,000,000. It is further estimated that the cost of operating such an Academy for the first year at a temporary site, assuming full utilization of an existing military installation with minimum modification, pending construction of a permanent installation, would be approximately $5,000,000.

"For the reasons hereinbefore enumerated, I strongly urge the favorable consideration by the Congress of the attached draft bill and recommend that the proposal be enacted into law."

Regular Navy Nominations

The President has sent to the Senate the nominations of the following for permanent appointment:

To be rear admiral (line)
George C. Crawford Apollo Soucek

Enlisted Career Plan

The Department of the Army this week announced the dates for submitting applications for combat career field promotion examinations of enlisted personnel. Individuals whose latest efficiency report score is 61 or below will be ineligible for promotion. Such a score requires mandatory reclassification proceedings.

The satisfactory composite score for promotion to grade 4 for individuals with 12 months in grade 5 or 30 months of total service is 1000. Any candidate with proper time in grade or service who obtains this score or higher will be promoted to grade 4. Time in grade or service in determining eligibility for examination will be computed as of 1 February 1950.

Opening and closing dates for applications are as follows:

Infantry Career Field Examinations scheduled for the first week in December 1949, from 6 September to 20 Oct.

Armored Cavalry Career Field Examinations scheduled for the second week in December 1949, from 12 Sept. to 26 Oct.

Artillery Career Field Examinations scheduled for the second and third weeks of January 1950, from 5 Oct. to 21 Nov.

USMC Wireless Messages

The Marine Barracks at Camp Lejeune, N. C., boasts one of the most unusual radio message centers in the United States. Personnel stationed at the base can send personal wireless messages of not more than 50 words to any part of the United States, Pearl Harbor or Guam, for free.

Messages are handled through amateur — or "ham" — traffic networks throughout the country, including Marine bases where amateur stations are operated.

Reunion of 1st Cavalry Div.

Extensive plans are under way for the annual reunion of the First Cavalry Division Association. This will be held at the Brown Hotel in Louisville, Ky., on 3 and 4 September. A well-rounded program covering the two days has already been developed, including business and pleasure elements.

prior to the Staff leaving the activity. They are also discussed with representatives of the interested bureaus prior to the submittal of the report to the Secretary. When a report is approved by the Secretary, the recommendations contained therein automatically take the form of directives to the bureau or office having management control of the activity surveyed. Also, through the medium of these surveys, a channel is established whereby desirable practices found to be existing in one activity are profitably instituted at other Naval installations.

Since the establishment of the Office, approximately one hundred and eight surveys have been conducted, including Shipyards, Air Stations, Supply Centers and Depots, Ordnance Plants, Ammunition Depots, Research Activities, Marine Corps Stations, and Naval Bases. The time spent at an activity varies, depending upon its size and scope. Factors taken into consideration when determining schedules and the selection of installations to be surveyed, involve the number of civilian personnel employed, the type of work being performed, and the activity's related importance to the operation and future planning of the Navy Department as a whole.

As mentioned above, the surveys are routine and, as such, are not inspections made as a result of hearsay or reported troubles. The Staff operates in such a manner as to be impersonal and to interfere as little as possible with the busy officers and civilians managing the activity being surveyed. The Office of Industrial Survey functions, for the Navy, in a manner similar to that of a firm of management analysts called in to survey a private company and render a report to the top management of that company.

14. Development and improvement of the organization and training of the National Guard, Organized Reserves, and other civilian components, with proper incentive training pay and appropriate training facilities for all elements.

AT the request of the Bureau of the Budget, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has asked the Army, Navy, and Air Force to submit to the Personnel Policy Board prior to 1 Sept. drafts of such amendments to the Officer Personnel Act of 1947 as are immediately necessary. These will be considered in the preparation of a bill for introduction in Congress next January. In addition the Board will prepare a comparative study of diverse treatments of personnel problems by the three military departments, including different methods of selection for promotion or elimination, constructive service, time in grade, and opportunities for promotion. Based on this study the Board will prepare a comprehensive revision of the Officer Personnel Act. While concurring in the advisability of a continuing study of the operation of the Personnel Act, with a view to early correction of inequities, many personnel experts of the Services question the advisability of a complete revision of the law in the immediate future. Since the law was only passed in 1947 they would prefer that more experience data be accumulated before undertaking a major revision. Nevertheless they regard the study that has been directed as of prime importance. Because of basic differences of the individual Services there will necessarily be some divergence in personnel management. However, they are agreed that promotion opportunities should be equalized insofar as practicable and inconsistencies eliminated. The Personnel Policy Board will be greatly assisted in its study by constructive suggestions from the field. Officers who wish to call attention to inequities in present laws or to propose improvements may write to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL and their suggestions will be passed to the Board, without disclosure of source, unless the writers direct otherwise.

LEGISLATION introduced in Congress last week at the request of the Secretary of the Army would give that official, as well as the President and the Secretary of Defense, continuing discretionary authority to reorganize the Army at any time without prior Congressional approval. This unprecedented proposal is sure to be carefully scrutinized by the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and House. The new bill would give the Secretary of the Army blanket authority to establish, abolish or consolidate basic branches of the Army. He would be empowered to prescribe, limit, extend or transfer the functions. He could detail, assign or transfer officers and enlisted personnel without regard to the branch in which they were commissioned or enlisted. Under the recent Presidential Reorganization Act the Chief Executive has the authority to reorganize the Department of the Army, but this action would be subject to Congressional veto. The proposal of Army Secretary Gordon Gray would enable him and his successors to achieve such a reorganization at any time without any prior consideration whatever by the Congress. It would substitute administrative flexibility for statutory rigidity. In view of the present reorganization authority of the President the necessity for granting even greater power to a sub-cabinet officer is not readily apparent. The Armed Services Committees should insist on the most cogent reasons before approving such sweeping authority.

THE return of Maj. Gen. James H. Burns to Government service will strengthen the Department of Defense and be of vast benefit to the nation. This distinguished Army officer, who has been retired for several years, will serve as consultant for the Military Establishment in connection with international affairs. Probably no American is better qualified for this post, and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson is to be congratulated on inducing him to accept the appointment. For many years General Burns served with distinction as an ordnance officer and was an outstanding authority on problems of munitions production and procurement. In the critical years that preceded our involvement in World War II he was executive officer to Mr. Johnson, when the present Defense Secretary was Assistant Secretary of War. In this office General Burns was instrumental in the development of many of the policies and programs of industrial mobilization that tremendously advanced our military preparedness. During the war General Burns served as principal assistant to the late Harry Hopkins in the Lend-Lease Administration. The general has an encyclopedic knowledge of sources of materials, production processes, and the war potential of all countries. His great experience, his vast store of information, his resourcefulness, tact and sound judgment, and his calm, efficient personality will be of incalculable value in the present international situation.

Letters to the Editor

Letters expressing individual views and intended for publication should be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith. If the writer desires to omit his name when the letter is published, he should so state. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL may find it necessary to use only extracts from longer letters so that more viewpoints may be represented.

Adjust Temp. Rank

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

Since the publication by the services of the permanent lists it would seem logical that some action would be taken to use them to equalize the rank situation. In evaluating personnel for these lists many factors other than temporary rank were considered and in some cases it was found that officers with lower temporary rank were better qualified than their seniors on the temporary list, yet no attempt has been made to readjust, except to give the better qualified officer a higher permanent rank.

I believe that it would be of benefit to the services as a whole if temporary ranks were readjusted to conform to the permanent list. The JOURNAL has successfully brought about a readjustment in many other unfavorable conditions. This situation, in my opinion, is as bad a morale factor as any other. It does not seem reasonable that because an officer was overseas at the outbreak of the war or a prisoner of war that he must continue to serve in a lower temporary grade than many of his juniors on the permanent list.

Major.

Time for Retirement

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

See where Chairman Vinson has introduced a bill (H.R. 5124) to cut from ten to seven years the period in which former Regular Army Warrant or Enlisted Men must serve as an officer before being eligible for retirement.

This Bill seems to me to be more or less a Bill of Bills, and warrants all the effort you can put behind it. Go after that with all you have. I am sure we are all behind you.

Marines Have "Right Idea"

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

A letter in your issue of 16 July, signed "Eligible," remarking on the fact that Marine Colonels of more than 30 years' service, including commendable war service, will retire as Brigadier Generals, should be of more than passing interest to a comparatively small number of Regular Army colonels, who, in spite of being recommended for promotion time after time, never wore a star.

My husband served in several theaters in World War II holding jobs which in the Table of Organizations called for Major General or Brigadier General, and, in each case, his rating was "Superior." He also, like "Eligible," was notified by the Adjutant General in 1945 that he at long last had made the General Officers' Eligible List.

Is it fair that this type of soldier, after more than 40 years' service for his country should have retired as a colonel? Can't something be done to give recognition to these men, who, as "Eligible" says, didn't have the luck of having the wheel stop at their numbers? The Marines have the right idea.

One Year Ago

Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner this week was named Chief of the Legislative and Liaison Division, Special Staff, United States Army, to succeed Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, selected by Secretary of Defense Forrestal as director for all legislation for the National Military Establishment.

Appointments: To be Major General of the Line—Brig. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce, vice Maj. Gen. Robert McC. Beck, jr., who retires on his own application after forty years' service, 31 Oct. 1939. To be Brig. Gen. of the Line—Col. Sherman Miles, FA, vice Brig. Gen. George C. Marshall, who is to be promoted to Maj. Gen. 1 Sept. 1939.

25 Years Ago

It is stated that the matter of selecting Captain Luke McNamee as Naval Attache, London, was decided upon only after a conference between the President, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Navy. Conditions in Europe convinced the President that special care should be exercised so that an officer should be selected with the equipment and service necessary to meet the situation.

50 Years Ago

While critics on this side of the Atlantic are showing that our Army at Santiago ought not to have won, the Spanish military commanders on duty are explaining that our operations were so conducted that it was absolutely impossible to make head against us. The difference is between the theory of war and its actual practice.

85 Years Ago

Inasmuch as there are still many officers in the European armies who fancy that the United States is destitute of military talent, and in grievous want of some of foreign importation, it would be an act of real kindness if the military gazettes abroad would disabuse their readers of the idea, and remind them that in more than three years of active war we have trained a body of officers more valuable than any whom Europe will be likely to send us.

U. S. COAST GUARD

CELEBRATING the 159th Anniversary of its founding on 4 Aug. this week, the U. S. Coast Guard received congratulatory messages from President Truman, Treasury officials, and many others.

In his message, the President said, "Observance of this day, the permanent designation of which I had the pleasure of proclaiming last year, recognizes the fidelity with which Coast Guardsmen discharge important responsibilities in our civil affairs, and the valor with which they have performed all military duties imposed upon them. . . . It is an anniversary of which every American assuredly is happy to take note."

Secretary of the Treasury, John W. Snyder, said that "the long record of the U. S. Coast Guard in peace and in war—a record marked always by efficiency, and brightened by innumerable acts of high courage—is one of which its entire personnel rightly may be proud. I am sure that the Coast Guard will continue to acquit itself with traditional honor."

The Under-Secretary of the Treasury, E. H. Foley, Jr., told the Coast Guard that "in all of its responsibilities, whether safety at sea, the ice and weather patrols, the maintenance of navigation aids, readiness for military service, or any other of the long list of its duties," it had "completed another year of exemplary accomplishment."

In a personal message to his command, Admiral J. F. Farley, Coast Guard Commandant, pointed out that "one fact holds true today as it did in 1790—the reason for our existence springs from a public need." The text of the remainder of his message was as follows:

"You of the Coast Guard are members of a constantly busy organization engaged in a wide variety of activities for the promotion of safety at sea—ranging from maritime accident-preventive safety work to actual rescue operations. In addition to the wide scope of your peacetime mission, you stand ready, like other members of the Armed Forces, to meet any military eventuality. The results of your countless duties and constant endeavor are reflected in the thousands of lives and millions of dollars in property saved each year."

"I also wish to acknowledge, and express my appreciation for, the work of our Coast Guard Reserve, Coast Guard Auxiliary and Coast Guard League. Each of these organizations is fulfilling a necessary mission and supplementing our regular activities."

"I hope each of you has a personal satisfaction in doing your individual share toward the fulfillment of our trust."

"As we observe our birthday this year in accordance with a proclamation of our President, in which he requests flags be displayed and celebrations held to honor the Coast Guard, we may recall with pride the faithful performance of all our duties during more than a century and a half of our existence. And we do resolve that our Service will continue to merit the confidence of the public in the future."

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—American Joint Chiefs of Staff held extended conferences in Europe this week with military leaders of Atlantic Pact countries. The discussions were largely technical and related to details of the military organization to be built up in Europe under the terms of the new defensive alliance resulting from the adoption of the North Atlantic Security Treaty which will soon become operative.

While ratification of this pact involves no increase in American troop strength in Europe, General Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, in an interview in Germany, said he knew of no plans for any reduction of our military personnel now on the continent. At the same time General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Chief of Staff, announced that our fighter squadrons in Europe would soon be completely equipped with new jet planes.

On arriving in Europe the Chiefs of Staff conferred at Frankfurt with the heads of the Italian armed forces and the commander of the tiny Luxembourg army. Subsequently they inspected military installations in the American zone of Germany and reviewed the 1st Division at Grafenwoehl. Later they flew to England where they met with leaders of the military arms of England, Norway and Denmark. On returning to the continent they met representatives of the armed forces of France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Portugal in a conference at Paris.

In the meantime Congressional committees in the United States considered the President's Military Aid Program for Atlantic Pact nations and certain other countries. Members of the Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees in a joint meeting expressed considerable dissatisfaction at the extent of the powers requested for the President in the administration of the program. Under the terms of the pending bill, wide discretionary authority would be granted the Chief Executive in designating the countries to receive assistance and the nature and extent of the aid to be granted. Many members of both Houses of Congress feel that the measure should set specific limits on the Presidential powers. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson met with the Senate committees in a closed session and are understood to have agreed to consider certain modifications in the authority sought.

The House Foreign Relations committee heard former Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Ambassador W. Averill Harriman urge that Congress grant the full $1.5 billion requested by the President for rearming friendly foreign countries. Both of these distinguished witnesses impressed on the committee members the urgent need for immediate assistance to the countries threatened with Communist aggression. General Marshall said that a general strategic defense concept for Western Europe had been agreed upon and was now being developed. As to the likelihood of Russian armed aggression in the immediate future General Marshall would not hazard a forecast, saying that Soviet leaders were unpredictable. Ambassador Harriman was somewhat more optimistic, indicating that all was not serene behind the Iron Curtain, and that cracks were developing in Soviet solidarity.

While members of the House committee were impressed with the gravity of the situation there continues to be considerable opposition to granting the full amount of the aid requested by the President. There were some indications that the administration measure will be largely rewritten so as to provide less sweeping Presidential authority for the distribution of the aid recommended. It seemed probable also that the amount made available for rearmament would be materially curtailed.

In a message to Congress this week the President reported that Greek nationalist troops were making material gains over the Communist rebels. With the assistance of American funds and supplies notable progress is being made by government forces. Improved leadership and training of regular troops are evident in the current fighting. Heavy casualties have reduced the number of rebels in the field. One factor in the civil war favorable to the Greek government is the cessation of rebel support from Yugoslavia, though aid is still forthcoming from Bulgaria and Albania, and probably from Russia.

Marshal Tito, the anti-Soviet head of the Yugoslav government, in addressing 350,000 followers in Macedonia this week denounced the Greek Communists, as well as the Red regimes in Bulgaria and Albania. He boldly offered aid to those who would seek to overthrow the current Communist governments of the neighboring Soviet satellites. Though long at odds with Russian leaders Tito in this latest speech made his most audacious challenge against Red world conquest. It will be interesting to note the Russian reaction to this threat. Soviet authorities cannot ignore this defiance without great loss of prestige.

American and British authorities in Germany began this week to reduce the operations of the Berlin air lift. The number of cargo planes flown daily will be gradually curtailed and the famous operation will be discontinued in October. However, equipment will be kept available and will be put into operation immediately should the Russians reimpose the blockade. Rail and highway traffic to Berlin from the west is now nearly normal and reserve stocks of food, fuel and other essentials are being accumulated in western Berlin.

John J. McCloy, Military Governor of the American zone of Germany, has returned to Washington to confer with State and Defense Department officials concerning early changes contemplated in the military government of Western Germany. As soon as the new West German regime, now in the process of formation, is established, Mr. McCloy will become High Commissioner instead of Military Governor and many governmental details will be transferred to the local administration, which, however, will remain under general Allied supervision.

Dr. J. Leighton Stuart, United States ambassador to China, has also returned to the United States to discuss with the State Department and probably Congressional leaders the explosive situation in that harried country. Just before Dr. Stuart left China a mob of angry Chinese seized our consulate in Shanghai and held our officials prisoners, in connection with a demand for payment of separation compensation alleged to be due native employees of the American Navy. This episode was temporarily adjusted but the anti-foreign feeling fostered by the Reds continues to menace American citizens resident in Communist-occupied areas of China.

Army Medical Dept.—On 27 July, the 174th anniversary of the founding of the U. S. Army Medical Department, the EUCOM Medical Division announced the use of a new drug in the treatment of viral hepatitis, a disease of the liver. The drug, aureomycin, already has been pre-tested in the treatment of other diseases, and is about to undergo clinical trial at the U. S. Army hepatitis research center. This center, which is the largest in the world for the study of hepatitis, is located at the Army's 98th General Hospital in Munich.

Not too much is known about hepatitis, but the army center already has found ways to shorten the time the patient needs for recuperation. Medical officers are looking forward to further advances against the disease through the use of aureomycin. They hope also to find a laboratory animal which is susceptible to viral hepatitis, as this would lead to a better understanding of the transmission of the disease and perhaps allow the development of preventive measures.

Nearly 3,000 Ft. Knox, Ky., soldiers have undergone tests to help determine the results of a new diphtheria toxoid on mass inoculation. Ordered by the Department of the Army, the tests are being conducted by the Surgeon General's Office. Present diphtheria toxoids produce a reaction inciting a certain amount of discomfort, but it is hoped that a diphtheria toxoid used in the tests will lessen the reaction. An even greater development that could come from the new injection would be the elimination of the now necessary Schick test for immunity.

The Surgeon General of the Army this week sent a team of consultants, including a Medical officer and three civilian physicians to the Pacific and Far East Commands to visit Army hospitals in Hawaii, Japan, the Philippines, Okinawa and Guam. Members of the team are Col. Warner F. Bowers, Chief Surgical Consultants' Division, Surgeon General's Office; Dr. Henry H. Kessler, Orthopedics, Newark, N. J.; Dr. Bruce Webster, Internal medicine, New York; Dr. Russell N. Dejong, neuropsychiatry, Ann Arbor, Mich. This team will be gone about a month.

Corps of Engineers—Col. Oscar B. Beasley has assumed command of the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories at Ft. Belvoir, Va., Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Weart, Commanding General of The Engineer Center and Ft. Belvoir announced. He succeeds Col. John C. Arrowsmith who is slated for the post of Comptroller in the Army Security Agency in Washington, D. C. Colonel Arrowsmith has headed the work of the laboratories since 1 Jan. 1948.

Quartermaster Corps—Col. Helmuth E. Beine will be relieved from Headquarters, Ft. Benning, Ga., and assigned to the Far East Command, effective 3 Oct. Lt. Col. Roy Reppard is being relieved from Logistics Division, GSUSA, Washington, D. C., and assigned to US Military Attache, London, England. Lt. Col. Harold R. Low is being relieved from Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, Neb., and assigned to Student Detachment, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich., effective 7 Sept. Lt. Col. Charles H. Blumenfeld recently transferred from CAC to QMC.

Lt. Col. Jay T. Glen has assumed the position of Officer-in-Charge, Headquarters, QMC Inspection Service, New York, N. Y., replacing Lt. Col. George R. Glen, who has been assigned to Student Detachment, Naval War College, Newport R. I.

Brig. Gen. K. L. Hastings, Quartermaster General, FEC, returned to Tokyo 22 July from a six-day inspection tour of installations at Kyoto, Osaka, Kobe Base and Kobe Base Command and Depot. Members of the inspection party included also Col. L. R. Wolfe, Quartermaster Eighth Army; Lt. Col. J. R. Rank, Chief of Supply, FEC QM; and 1st Lt. G. W. Adams, Food Service Section, QM Eighth Army. It was the first of several projected inspection tours in the FEC planned by General Hastings who was assigned as Quartermaster General, FEC, early last June.

No Ships for Navy Day—When, and if, Navy Day is celebrated this year, the festivities will have to be conducted without the benefit of Naval vessels, according to a Navy Department directive. The order, issued to all commands this week, states that no special visits will be made by Naval vessels for the purpose of participating in Navy Day observances. It will be recalled that the Navy League, an independent organization of Navy supporters, has announced that it will continue its sponsorship of Navy Day celebrations despite Secretary Johnson's order that such observances be abolished in favor of one all-service celebration.

Army Wife Defends Service Pay—Mrs. Rita Margot Wright, an Army wife of Junction City, Kans., has vigorously replied to a recent article in The United States News and World Report entitled "Real Income of Military Men." The article compared civilian and military compensation and indicated that military service was made particularly attractive by various side benefits. Mrs. Wright points to the recent Treasury list showing that many top industrialists are receiving salaries of several hundred thousand dollars a year each and asks whether anyone can seriously contend that their services were as valuable as those of Generals Eisenhower, Bradley, Patton, MacArthur, Clay, Arnold, Spaatz and Clark. If military compensation is as attractive as the article suggests, she inquires as to the reason why so many officers are resigning to accept more lucrative civilian positions and why so many young college men have declined commissions in the Services.

Aside from helping the agency to develop its concepts for long-range mobilization planning, Mr. Watkins, at the request of the White House, has supervised several projects of immediate importance, particularly "feasibility tests" of the nation's security programs for the current fiscal year and a special study of the probable impact on the domestic economy of the proposed military aid for Atlantic Pact members.

S. after a training cruise to Bermuda, went aground this week on Bearse Shoals off the coast of Massachusetts, where a large number of the cruise members were removed by minesweepers. Air Defense of Japan—A one day commandwide air defense training exercise, involving units of the Far East Air Forces' major commands, was held last week to test FEAF elements under simulated combat conditions. Tokyo was the principal target, with other places in the Far East Command "bombed" by combat equipped aircraft from the 19th Bomb Wing, Guam; 20th Air Force, Okinawa; 13th Air Force, Philippine Islands; and 5th Air Force, Japanese Islands. In addition units of the 40th Antiaircraft Artillery Brigade, of Eighth Army, participated.

The 13th, 20th and 5th Air Forces provided air defense in their respective areas. The offensive was furnished by elements from Guam and Japan. Participating aircraft included B-29 Superforts, B-26 Invaders, F-51 Mustangs, F-61 Black Widows, F-80 jet-propelled Shooting Stars, and RB-29 Superforts and RF-80 Shooting Star reconnaissance aircraft. Results were recorded with cameras.

Senator Warren Magnuson (D., Wash.), also a USNR lieutenant commander, was passed over by the board.

Psychotherapeutic Medicine—The Army Surgeon General has announced a two-week course of instruction in the Principles of psychotherapeutic medicine. The purpose of the course is to orient general medical officers in the principles of psychiatry with particular emphasis on the diagnosis and care of psychosomatic conditions. In view of the acute shortage of psychiatrists in the Armed Forces, the course is designed to enable non-psychiatrists to meet psychiatric problems in part.

Hospitals at which the course will be given, and the beginning and terminating dates, are as follows: Fitzsimons General Hospital, Colo., 29 Aug.-10 Sept.; Letterman General Hospital, Calif., 5 Sept.-17 Sept.; and Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C., 29 Aug.-10 Sept. The reporting date in each case is two days in advance of the beginning date. All Class II installations have been allotted spaces.

Boys' Forum at Pentagon—Ninety-six members of the Boys' Forum of National Government, sponsored by the American Legion, spent several hours at the Pentagon last Monday as the guests of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson. They met officials of the Department of Defense and of the Army, Navy and Air Force and had luncheon at one of the cafeterias. The boys chose four of their members as secretaries of the four departments of the National Military Establishment. Appropriately Charles S. Brown, from the significantly named town of War in Secretary Johnson's home state of West Virginia, was selected as Secretary of Defense. Norman Cohn, of Waterloo, Iowa, was chosen Secretary of the Army; Larry Ogle, Miami, Fla., Secretary of the Navy; and George A. Sarinopoulos, Fairfield, Ala., Secretary of the Air Force.

Writes on West Point—Mr. William Hines, formerly Assistant Chief of News in the Department of the Army and now a member of the Public Information Staff of the National Military Establishment, is the author of an article "West Point—Myth and Reality" in the August issue of the American Mercury. Mr. Hines' articles have appeared previously in Mercury and many other magazines.

Soviet Air Power—The latest jet planes of the Soviet Air Force were exhibited in public for the first time last month as they zoomed across the Moscow sky in observance of the USSR's Aviation Day. The air show, including hundreds of planes of all types in addition to the jet model aircraft, was held at Tushino airdrome just outside Moscow. About 500,000 spectators were on hand to witness the demonstration, which was reviewed by Marshal Stalin.

U. S. and other foreign military attaches in the Russian capital who were present for the air spectacle, said that the new jets indicated progress over models displayed a little over two months ago at the May Day celebration. Described by the Russians as "superspeed jet aircraft," the planes included three single-engine types and one two-engine type. Reports by the United Press indicated that the planes travelled at such speed that their characteristics could not later be agreed upon by the foreign attaches.

The U. S. Navy's Air Attache in Moscow, Rear Adm. Leslie C. Stevens, pointed out as "especially noteworthy" the fact that the show "was restricted completely to modern aircraft." He said "there were absolutely no obsolescent types." Extensive aerobatics and formation flying conducted by the jets, was described as "magnificent" by Admiral Stevens. "Such performance comes only after great practice," he added. The Admiral has been present in Moscow for two previous Soviet air demonstrations.

Airborne Advocates—The 82d Airborne Division Association has issued a demand that "immediate action be taken to reconcile any difference of opinion between the Services," and has called for the Army and Air Force to proceed with a "sound plan for unity and security through the principles of Airborne Attack."

At its convention in Chicago last month, the Association adopted a resolution which attacked "economy moves to remove the highly prized and proudly worn insignia, Airborne tabs, glistening jump boots and Parachute-Glider cap patches." The resolution held that such action "will constitute an affront to the morale necessary to continue the elite type of America's foremost fighting man—the Airborne Soldier."

With regard to the importance of airborne attack, the Association declared: "The recoilless weapon, fired from the individual's shoulder makes obsolete the tank; guided missiles will replace the bomber; and atomic weapons make beachhead assaults untenable. The modern answer lies in an Air Force with highly developed troop carrier and supply equipment, plus a highly skilled Army that can be transported completely by air, from widely dispersed assembly areas, converging on any objective within a minute's notice. Such an Army can only be an Airborne Army."

Admiral Nimitz on Television

The armed forces' reserves "are the best guarantee that victory will be secure in the future," Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, former Chief of Naval Operations, declared this week in the second of an eight-week series of network Navy educational television programs.

Admiral Nimitz, who led U. S. Naval forces to victory over the Japanese in the Pacific, spoke from the Navy's television studio at Port Washington, L. I., N. Y.

Reservists, viewing the telecast from classrooms at Naval Air Stations in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C., heard Admiral Nimitz say that "a strong reserve organization is an important safeguard to national security."

Other speakers on the program were Rear Adm. Irving M. McQuiston, Assistant to the Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Air, and Capt. J. R. Ruhnsenberger, Commanding Officer and Director of the Navy Special Devices Center.

One day earlier a Saturday series of televised instruction had been inaugurated with talks by William Frye, Director of the NME Office of Public Information; Maj. Gen. Cliff Andrus, Army Director of Organization and Training; and Lt.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, Air Force Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations.

Mr. Frye told the television audience that "The Army and Air Force are actively monitoring the Navy's pioneering experiments in this method. . . . Since ninety per cent of the Armed Forces' problems are centered around training, the active interest in this teaching experiment is easily understood."

Midshipmen Training Cruise

A ten-ship Naval task force sailed this week from Norfolk, Va., on the second 1949 Midshipmen's training cruise. Twelve hundred midshipmen from the U. S. Naval Academy and eight civilian universities are making the seven-week cruise which will include visits to Cherbourg, France, and Guantanamo, Cuba. The ships are scheduled to arrive at Cherbourg on 15 Aug.

Headed by the battleship Missouri, the task force vessels include five destroyers, the USS New, USS Holder, USS Rich, USS R. L. Wilson and USS Damato, and four light minelayers, the USS Shea, USS Shannon, USS R. E. Fraser and USS H. F. Bauer.

William Frye, Director of the NME Office of Public Information, announced this week that Curtis Mitchell has been appointed Deputy Director. Mr. Mitchell has been serving as Chief, News Division and will be replaced by Robert Bruskin. James F. King, who has served as Deputy to Mr. Frye, will become an assistant to Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray.

Army Racial Policy

The Army is expected to submit within the next two weeks to Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and the President's Committee on Equality of Treatment and Opportunity in the Armed Services a new proposal concerning segregation.

Previous Army segregation plans have been rejected by the Defense Secretary. The Army, it is understood, has insisted that on racial matters the Army should conform to local opinion. But it is believed that the President's Committee will not accept this plan. Ultimately, the final decision may have to be made by the President.

Financial Digest

Despite a marked increase in unemployment during July economists are optimistic concerning the general business outlook during the remainder of the year. A favorable factor is the report of the Federal Reserve Board that business loans increased by $16 million during the week ending 27 July, reversing a downward trend that had been continuous for 27 weeks.

Outstanding bank loans on 27 July amounted to $12,891,000,000, which is $1.7 billion below the all-time peak reached on 22 Dec. 1948. The increase in bank loans last week was largely accounted for by borrowings of merchants for replenishment of depleted inventories and for purchases of fall and winter goods.

An encouraging report on the financial prospect was given by Mr. Earl R. Muir of Louisville for the American Bankers Association. He said that business was picking up and that there was no danger of a real depression since savings and bank deposits of the public amounted to more than $175 billion.

The Bureau of the Census this week reported that unemployment increased from 3,778,000 in June to 4,095,000 in July, the greatest number out of work since 1942. The unemployed in July 1948 numbered 2,227,000. Paradoxically the number of employed in July of this year was 59,720,000, the highest employment of any period during the present year. The increase both of employed and unemployed is accounted for by the fact that the total work force of the United States is larger, because of normal increases in population and because of the number of high school and college students seeking summer employment. The total number employed during July of 1948 was 61,615,000.

Obtains New York License

The United Services Automobile Association of San Antonio, Texas, was granted a license to do an insurance business in New York State on 14 July, according to an announcement by Col. William F. Jones, USA-Ret., Secretary-Treasurer and General Manager.

For several years the management of the Association has been confronted with two laws in New York, the license law relating to reciprocal insurance exchanges, and the New York Motor Vehicle Safety-Responsibility Act. The license law provided that each policyholder must be worth at least $10,000 before a license would be granted, and the Motor Vehicle Safety-Responsibility Act carried the provision that an insurance company to meet fully the requirements of the Act must be licensed in New York.

The problem of the license law relating to reciprocal insurance exchanges was presented to the New York authorities with the result that at the last session of the New York legislature the license law was liberalized, thus permitting the Association to obtain the long desired license.

Now that the Association is licensed in New York State, it can verify insurance on the date of an accident, or file financial responsibility proof when required by the New York Motor Vehicle Safety-Responsibility Act. Thus its members are assured of complete insurance service in New York State.

Although the Association is chartered as a reciprocal insurance exchange, its operations are similar to those of a mutual company in that the management

Insertion in the Third Deficiency Appropriation Act, 1949 (H.R. 5300) of a provision to preserve the authority of the U. S. Maritime Commission to underwrite marine and war risk insurance was requested by the National Federation of American Shipping. Citing that in recent months the London and American insurance markets have served notice upon shipowners that war risk insurance policies are to be automatically cancelled in the event of certain war conditions, Samuel D. Schell, Federation Vice-President, informed the Senate Appropriations Committee that such factors have made the clarification of authority an urgent matter for congressional action.

In proposing the clarification to H.R. 5300, Mr. Schell emphasized that no appropriated funds are necessary, since all insurance premiums collected by the Commission will, under the current Appropriation Acts, be transferred into the Treasury, and should any losses occur they would in most instances be payable first to the USMC to the extent of its legal or equitable interest. In order to provide full coverage and protection for both Government and private citizens, a draft bill has been prepared in collaboration with the Commission and the Budget Bureau, and it is reported that such comprehensive legislation will be introduced in Congress shortly.

Charges that the Maritime Commission has contributed an excessive amount for construction-differential subsidy and National Defense features in connection with the building of new passenger ships for American shipowners will be the topic of public hearings scheduled for 8 Aug. by the Government Operations Subcommittee of the House.

is responsible to a Board of Directors elected by the members. Membership is limited to commissioned and warrant officers. The Association is at present managed by three attorneys-in-fact, Col. William F. Jones, Col. Mert Proctor, and Col. Charles E. Cheever, all retired Army officers. The assets of the Association on 30 June 1949, were $7,776,310.09.

Regular USMC Confirmations

The Senate Committee on Armed Services has this week reported and the Senate has confirmed the Marine Corps nominations submitted on 21 July, and listed in the 23 July issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.

RCA Earnings Statement

The consolidated statement of income of the Radio Corporation of America and subsidiaries for the second quarter of 1949 and the first six months of the year, with comparative figures for the corresponding periods of 1948, was issued 29 July by Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, Chairman of the Board of RCA.

Total gross income from all sources amounted to $187,257,987 in the first half of 1949, compared with $176,079,713 in the same period in 1948, an increase of $11,178,274. Net income, after all charges and taxes, was $10,122,049 for the first six months of 1949, compared with $10,850,288 in 1948, a decrease of $728,239. After payment of Preferred dividends, net earnings applicable to the Common stock for the first six months of 1949 were 61.6 cents per share, compared with 66.8 cents per share in the first half of 1948.

Navy Plans Antarctic Trek

The Navy may soon make another expedition into unexplored territory of the South Pole, according to a disclosure made this week by the National Military Establishment.

In answer to queries, the Defense Department said that a Naval expedition to the Antarctic is currently under consideration in the Department of the Navy, where plans have been in preparation for some time.

The entire project, according to NME, has been under close scrutiny in the light of budget limitations, and no final decision has been reached.

Some sources have indicated that the expedition, if approved, will be headed by Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, USN, Ret. At present the project has been referred to Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, and no decision will be made, the Defense Establishment said, until his return from the European trip of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.
